CorelDRAW is a graphics program for a variety of platforms, including. If you are a big cheese of a company, you can get some private startup staff to set up the nice looking website you are going to host in. In the end, you can just charge them for the work they have done so you can have a nice website all set up. The company that is 'doing the work' (providing the service) can be seen as a startup too. I wrote about a Lazyweb PR firm that charges $250,000 to post to your Facebook website. That is huge money because startups should not waste money on very expensive, very complicated services. If you can't afford to pay $50 for your domain and hosting, then why not hire a startup to set it up for you? There are now some companies out there providing very good services in this space. Let's take a quick look at them and see how we can make a profit out of this great market. 1) Domain Agency Domain Agency are one of the cheapest startups you will find. They are able to start at $5.99/month to start saving your company from nasty things such as domain squatting. Domain Agency have the services listed above as well as helping you to register your domain. Once you have used a domain agency, you can just log into the domain manager and see who has the rights to that domain. That way you can sell the rights to the domain back to Domain Agency. This is a great way to make a profit by helping startups keep their domain names safe and sound. The advantage of Domain Agency are that your website is always safe
